Shop Local

This Holiday Gift Guide once again invites you to explore the myriad local small businesses in the area that make perfect spots for all your seasonal shopping. At Shandell's, artisan Susan Schneider turns paper into magic moments (see cover photo). Out of her new home studio in Ashley Falls, Mass., Schneider handcrafts marbled paper into lampshades, match trays, coasters, and pencil cups. Her marbled paper holiday stars — each a completely unique creation — can hang anywhere for any occasion and are available on her website, www.shandells.com, for $32. You can also follow Schneider on Instagram at @shandells. Happy shopping.

Honeychurch Home has established itself as a local favorite for its highly curated, one-of-a-kind collection of luxury home goods. The proprietor, Carolyn Piccirelli, collaborates on small-run collections with craftsmen from around Europe; the ceramics, glassware and textiles on display at the shop come from England, Hungary, the Netherlands, and even Connecticut, and many are made uniquely for Honeychurch Home.

The curation is impeccable, and each item boasts a quality unique to the studios of small-scale artisans, some of whom have been in business for generations. Piccirelli has called her curation “timeless”—think blue-and-white striped wool slippers or a luxurious lambswool throw in a simple plaid. But she also offers fun, joyous design: consider the one-of-a-kind floral chandelier constructed from painted and cut newsprint by a Tuscan artist or the ceramic bowls petaled like artichokes, made uniquely for Honeychurch Home.

Hand-Knit Stuffed Animals
Small $39, Medium $72, Large $92

“Not only are these adorable and beautifully made but for every animal we sell, ten meals are donated to disadvantaged children.” The dolls are hand-knit with 100% cotton yarn and entirely hypoallergenic.

Topiaries $40 - $269

“As a gift, topiaries make people smile,” said Piccarelli. “They have so much personality.” Small enough for the tabletop or big enough for the entryway, topiaries of Myrtle, Angel Vine, Lavender, and Coleus, to name a few, are planted in ready-to-go clay and ceramic pots.

French Slippers $70

“How can you not love the jaunty stripe and softness of these slippers?” asked Piccarelli.

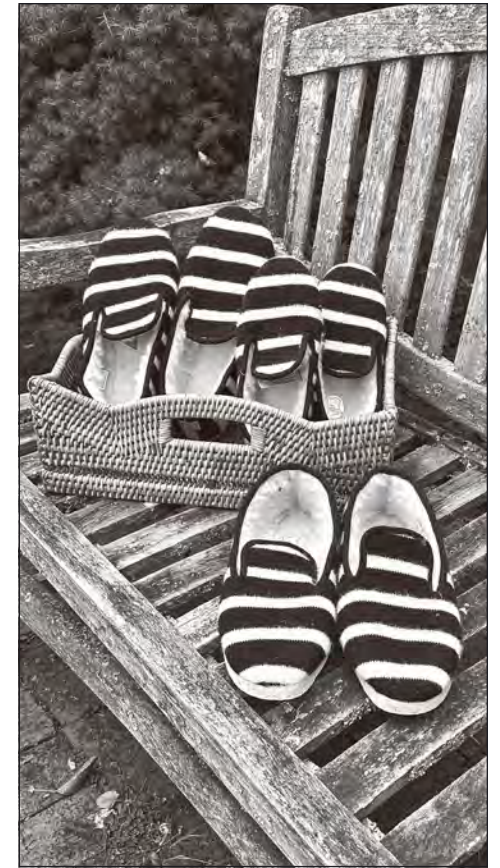

“These are a family memory in the making.” Made in France from pure wool, the slippers promise exceptional insulation and coziness, and the crepe sole ensures a sturdy grip.

Petal Bowl Small $179, Large $279

“Made just for us in Italy, the Petal Bowl has become a signature piece for us,” said Piccarelli. The ceramic bowls, handmade in Tuscany, are available in two sizes, in translucent glazes of ivory, dusty blue, and pine-green. The small measures 12 inches in diameter and 9 inches high, while the large measures 16 x 11 inches.

100% Lambswool Throw $599

“Luxury never goes out of style,” said Piccarelli. The black and white plaid throw with whipstitch detail is 100% lamb-

🖱️ www.oblongbooks.com

Oblong Books is an independent bookstore with locations in Millerton and Rhinebeck, N.Y. The store in Millerton was established in 1975 and has continued to be the go-to small town book seller in Dutchess County. The shop remains a local hub for book lovers and a cultural center in the community. Oblong Books, as well as its children's section around the corner, Oblong Jr., is known for its commitment to promoting literacy, supporting local authors, and hosting author events and book signings. This season, Oblong bookseller Therese Stanford has selected five books for young readers across all age groups. Reading offers a lifelong escape to different places and times. It instills empathy and teaches life lessons, making it a significant and enduring gift.

HATCHETTE BOOK GROUP

“If I Was A Horse” written and illustrated by Sophie Blackall $18.99

“Sophie Blackall is one of my all-time favorite authors and illustrators,” said Stanford. “This begins with a child imagining if she was a horse and all the things she would do, and the illustrations are stunning. It’s full of such joy and is a beautiful book. This would be excellent for children three to eight years old.”

“How Does Santa Go Down the Chimney?” written by Mac Barnett, illustrated by Jon Klassen $18.99

“Just the most wonderful simple humor for children and adults. Here we are wondering if Santa will slip down the chimney like taffy, or if he’ll turn himself into fire, or if he ever gets stuck. I know this is going to do very well this season. This book is excellent because it discusses many children’s questions, like what if you don't like somewhere with a chimney? The answer here is that he'll become a stamp on a piece of mail, and the reindeer will push the letter under the door."

"The Puppets of Spellhorst" written Kate DiCamillo, illustrated by Julie Morstad
$17.99

"This is about a man who buys these puppets, and the puppets talk to each other. It's an original fairytale that's pure enchantment. I was under a spell and captivated by the first words of this luminous and dazzling storyteller. It's for ages seven to 10."

"The Lost Library" by Rebecca Stead and Wendy Mass $17.99

"This is for more independent readers eight to twelve. This is perfect for a child ready to get into chapter books or even a parent who wants to read a longer book aloud and get them hooked. I love this book because it's equally good for boys or girls. The mystery is what caused a fire at the small town library years ago. Evan, a serious boy, becomes obsessed with the mystery when a small free library appears guarded by an old ginger cat. Throw in some charming ghosts and talking mice, and you'll be swept up!"

"The Legacies" by Jessica Goodman $18.99

"This is a glitzy young adult thriller for ages 14 and older set in New York City, with elite social circles filled with backstabbing, blackmail, twisty turns, and a dead boy — old money, new secrets, and one killer party. An author I would compare her to is Holly Jackson, author of 'A Good Girl's Guide To Murder.'"

When Juniper opened its doors seven years ago, owner Jennifer Moriarty was a photographer looking for space to open a studio, possibly sell a few related articles. The people leasing the property had retail in mind, so to accommodate that idea, Jennifer opened a small shop with some lovely gifts, a small but unique space, but sometimes, as we know, the best laid plans become something else entirely! Moriarty was so successful in her tiny gift shop, that it spread, and kept growing, and today it offers a tantalizing array of gifts, for all ages, all genders, and all tastes. Moriarty's background with Ralph Lauren as general manager, and an art background in college helped in her success in creating this life style boutique.

Hammertown, the converted horse barn just outside the hamlet of Pine Plains, is filled with holiday spirit and gifts for everyone – books, antiques, clothing, kitchen wares, jewelry, and art. Joan Osofsky, its founder, creative visionary, and lifestyle author, selected some of her favorite gift ideas for our readers. Baby items from books, to stuffed animals, games and clothing now have more space at Hammertown’s expanded young children’s section. Hammertown always has a wide selection of very collectible Terrafirma ceramics handmade in a New York City studio by a woman-owned company. Here the distinctive pattern is made by painting glaze through textiles and lace to create a casual but sophisticated look.

Orangerie Garden & Home

By Judith O'Hara Balfe

📍 3424 Franklin Avenue, Millbrook, NY

📷 @orangeriegarden

🖱️ www.orangeriegarden.com

Nestled next to Creel and Gow, Orangerie is a light-filled structure, half-in-doors, half out-doors, that is very, very green. Trees, plants, bushes, topiaries, flowers, it is a garden center, but it also has a large selection of home décor goods ranging from $15 to over $500. The pieces are carefully chosen, and mostly unique, not pieces you'll find just anywhere.

Owner Anthony Bellomo selected several items for the upcoming holidays, to decorate one's home or to give as gifts.

He opened Orangerie in April of 2021 and has become an expert in knowing what his customers want. Some of those he chose that are his particular favorites are listed below.

Topiaries $35-$125

For those who like giving live plants, topiaries are good choices. Aside from being decorative, some, such as a Rosemary topiary, can also be used to spice up food creations. Bellomo likes the idea of giving live plants; they thrive throughout the winter.

Tulipieres $525

Unique, beautiful, Bellomo also chose these flower holders, called Tulipieres as favorites. They are not inexpensive, but they are unique! They can be separated, and each reservoir holds its own water. Always fresh in green and white, the look may seem Asian, but a closer gander shows the motif to be Dutch.

Christopher Spitzmiller Cups $95

"These bowls are hand crafted by Christopher Spitzmiller," said Bellomo of the cups and bowl made by Bellomo's husband, who is local to Millbrook.

Glasses $16, Pitcher $36

Green again, because it goes so well with Christmas and blends in with any garden space, these uniquely shaped glasses are a find, to keep or to give as a gift. They are made in Morocco.

Brushes, Small $10, Medium $15, Large $20

"These brushes are great to give as gifts to people who love to garden," says Bellomo. "Gardeners always have dirt under their fingernails. These are great for getting all the dirt out."

Hurricane $300

Made in India, the hurricane lamps would make an elaborate gift but, says Bellomo, "It gets dark early in December. These lamps would be perfect for giving off just enough light." They'd be lovely on a holiday table as well, maybe surrounded with greens and berries.

Beeswax Candle Pair $38

"Candles are always a good gift to give a hostess," said Bellomo. He likes these candles, in different colors and different styles, some designed to look like twigs.

Bowls, Small $10, Medium $15, Large $20

The bowls featured here are manufactured, not hand made, but are very fetching for holding various foods, and come in different sizes.

Bellomo expects to have Christmas merchandise in before too long; they'll have swags, wreaths, and this year Christmas trees as well. You can also expect some beautiful and unique Christmas ornaments and decorations, as well as finding Christmas and holiday gifts you'll be proud to give.

Salisbury General Store & Gifts

By Alexander Wilburn

📍 20 Main St, Salisbury, CT

📷 @salisburygeneralstore 🖱️ www.spgrx.com

Salisbury General Store's Manager Larissa Vreeland has curated a cozy collection of gifts to fill up all your stockings hung on the fireplace. Holiday browsing at the shop on Main Street in Salisbury is an annual tradition for residents. As you explore the store, you'll likely run into friends and neighbors, creating a sense of camaraderie that defines the festive season. Conversations drift from holiday plans to local news and warm wishes for the upcoming festivities. It's a time for connection and rekindling community bonds.

Thymes Fraser Fir Aromatic Candle $37

A Siberian fir needle and sandalwood-scented candle at Christmas fills the air with nostalgia. Its fragrant embrace conjures memories of evergreen forests and twinkling lights, adding a touch of nature to celebrations all winter long.

Little Voices Bracelets $30

Make the Eras Tour last well into the holiday season with a stackable gift of word art bracelets. With dozens of grounding words and phrases to choose from, these whimsical bracelets would look very charming tied in a bow and tucked in a stocking for an excited Swiftie.

Glasshouse Fragrances Night Before Christmas Set $82.50

Named after the 19th-century poem by American author Clement Clark Moore, this fragrance, with top notes of blackcurrant and redcurrant, brings a burst of fruity cheer. The middle notes of plum, lemon, lavender, and rose add a delightful bouquet. Musk, oak moss, and spice in the base notes create a cozy, festive ambiance filling your home.

Spartina 449 Lagoon Necklace With Crystals $180

Giving jewelry at the holidays is a heartfelt expression of love and thoughtfulness. The sparkle of gems and the elegance of design amplify the joy of gifting, making it a memorable and meaningful gesture.

Lynn & Liana Designs Handmade Cutting Board $103

A gift for the hostess with the most-est: this cheeseboard, crafted from hardwood and an eco-friendly epoxy, will easily become a centerpiece for gatherings, serving memorable moments with cheese, fruit and nuts – it might even inspire a friend to get adventurous with a butter board laid at for friends with bread in hand.

John Robshaw Shop

By Patrick L. Sullivan

📍 5 US-7, Falls Village, CT

🖱️ www.johnrobshaw.com

If you're looking for something exotic in a Christmas present then go no farther than 5 Route 7 in Falls Village where John Robshaw offers unusual pillows and bedding and furniture and odds and ends, much of it from India.

Hand Painted Tapestry $1,400

On a recent visit the proprietor, asked to showcase a variety of goods with a wide range of prices, started with an expensive item, a hand painted tapestry of a camel, made in Jaipur, India in the 1950s. Robshaw said Jaipur is known for producing these colorful interior murals.

Pillows Starting at $225

In the next room was an array of patch pillows from India and embroidered pillows from Uzbekistan.

Copper Cups $60

Nearby on a shelf in a cupboard were Lassi cups, made of burnished copper and brass and with intricate etched designs. Robshaw said people often use them as vases.

South Indian Figures $20

Next to them were little painted clay figurines representing local deities from South India. Robshaw said making the figurines is a cottage industry in an area with limited jobs. It's a pretty good bet that your favorite aunt does not have one of these on the knickknack shelf.

Handmade wooden rings from Jaipur $100

"This is a nice story," said Robshaw, a natural raconteur. "They're made by Muslim women who do not have a lot of job opportunities."

Box of cards $35

Next to the rings were boxes of hand screened greeting cards made from recycled cotton and adorned with Indian patterns.
